

Embed Videos from Academic Video Online to D2L

Last Modified on 04/01/2022 9:47 am CDT

Based on instructions provided by LSC-NH librarians

If you are an instructor looking for educational videos to embed in D2L content, explore the library's subscription database "Academic Video Online: Premium." You can find it in the list of the library's video databases (<http://www.lonestar.edu/library/15605.htm>):

3. Click on the video you want to use from within the search results.

4. When the video opens, click on the Share link in the black bar at the bottom. This will open up sharing options at the bottom of the window.

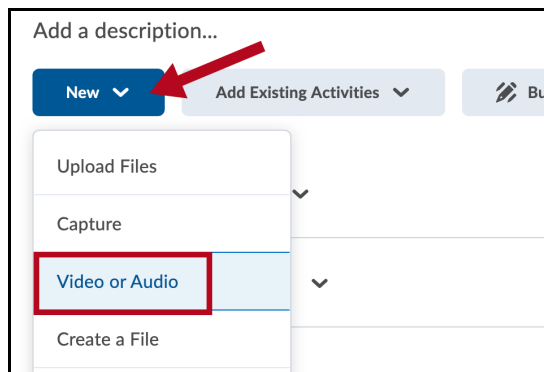

5. At the bottom of the window, click the button that says Copy Embed Code.

6. Open your D2L course and navigate to the module where you would like to place the video.

7. Click the New button and choose Video or Audio.

8. In the window that pops up, paste your embed code into the box, then give your video a title and click the Save button.

9. You may see the following error when you click Save. If you do, click the checkbox to "Always trust this URL" and click the Allow button.

10. The video should now appear in the module.

NOTE: Students may be required to log in with their library barcode numbers or myLoneStar credentials in order to access the video off campus.
