

Evaluate and Publish Assignment Submissions

Last Modified on 12/05/2024 4:34 pm CST

This article describes how to evaluate and publish assignment submissions as an assignment evaluator and/or publisher. The process will differ depending on the assignment settings.

Access Assignment Submissions

Once the assignment folder has received student submissions, you may follow the steps below to access them.

1. From the course Navbar, select [Course Activities] followed by [Assignments].

2. From the Assignment Folders page, select the [dropdown arrow] next to the assignment you want to evaluate and select [View Submissions].

NOTE: You may also select the number in the New Submissions column to go directly to new student submissions.

Evaluating and Publishing Submissions

The evaluation screen will differ depending on the assignment's setup options. If the student is allocated to you for evaluation, you will see Your Name under the Evaluators section when viewing the submission.

If the assignment you are evaluating has a rubric attached, please refer to the Grade an Assignment with a Rubric \(https://vtac.lonestar.edu/help/grade-assignment-rubric\) article.

All Evaluators Can Publish Any Evaluations

If [All evaluators can publish any evaluations] is enabled, you will have access to publish evaluations for any student, including those allocated to other evaluators.

1. Enter a grade for the submission in the Overall Grade field.
2. Enter any desired feedback for the submission in the Overall Feedback field.
3. Select [Publish] to publish the grade and feedback.

A Brewed History: Coffee in America

Coffee's journey in America began in the 17th century, initially introduced by Captain John Smith in Jamestown. While tea remained popular, the Boston Tea Party in 1773 marked a turning point, leading to a patriotic shift towards coffee consumption. The 18th and 19th centuries witnessed the rise of coffeehouses, fostering intellectual exchange and social gatherings. The Civil War further solidified coffee's role in American culture, with soldiers relying on it for energy and

Evaluator Access Only with One Shared Evaluation

If you have access to evaluate students but NOT publish your evaluation, and One Shared Evaluation is enabled.

1. Enter a grade for the submission in the Overall Grade field.
2. Enter any desired feedback for the submission in the Overall Feedback field.
3. Select [Ready for Review] to complete your evaluation.

NOTE: If a student is receiving One Shared Evaluation, the process remains the same regardless of whether it's from one or multiple evaluators.

Evaluator Access Only with Multiple Individual Evaluations

If you have access to evaluate students but NOT publish your evaluation, and Multiple individual evaluations is enabled. You'll see multiple tabs for each student submission: one for each evaluator allocated to the student and one labeled Aggregated.

If you are an assigned evaluator for the student, your name will appear in one of the tabs. Evaluate the submission under the tab with [Your Name].

1. Enter a grade for the submission in the Overall Grade field.
2. Enter any desired feedback for the submission in the Overall Feedback field.
3. Select [Ready to Aggregate] to complete your evaluation.

NOTE: When an [Aggregated] tab is present, entries made in individual evaluator tabs are internal and not visible to the student. Only the information in the [Aggregated] tab is published to the gradebook and visible to the student.

Publisher Only Access

If you only have access to publish evaluations, you can access all submissions and view the feedback and grades provided by each evaluator. These evaluations are organized under individual tabs labeled with the evaluator's name.

Publisher Access with One Shared Evaluation

If you have publisher access and One Shared Evaluation is enabled. You will only have the option of publishing completed evaluations. You can open student submissions and select [Publish] for any completed evaluations.

The screenshot displays a submission review interface. At the top, the user is identified as 'Abby Alaska' and the document as 'The History of Coffee.docx'. Below this, there is a 'Click to User Submissions' link. The main content area shows the document text: 'The History of Coffee' followed by a paragraph: 'Coffee, a ubiquitous beverage in modern society, has a rich and complex history that spans continents and centuries. Its journey from a relatively unknown Ethiopian fruit to a global commodity has been shaped by cultural, economic, and social factors. This essay will explore the evolution of coffee, tracing its origins, spread, and subsequent impact on various cultures.' On the right side, there is a panel for 'Evaluator' information, showing 'Devon Delaware' as the evaluator. Below this, the 'Overall Grade' is displayed as '90 / 100' with a lock icon and a signal strength indicator. The 'Overall Feedback' section contains the text: 'Good work, your thesis statement provides a strong foundation for your argument.' At the bottom right of the interface, a blue 'Publish' button is highlighted with a red rectangular box.

Publisher Access with Multiple Individual Evaluations

If you have publisher access and Multiple Individual Evaluations is enabled. You will have access to provide feedback and grades in the [Aggregated] tab. Only these entries will be published to the gradebook and be made visible to the student.

1. Select the [Aggregated] tab.
2. Enter a grade for the submission in the Overall Grade field.
3. Enter any desired feedback for the submission in the Overall Feedback field.
4. Select [Publish] to publish the grade and feedback.
