Last Modified on 12/04/2024 4:56 pm CST

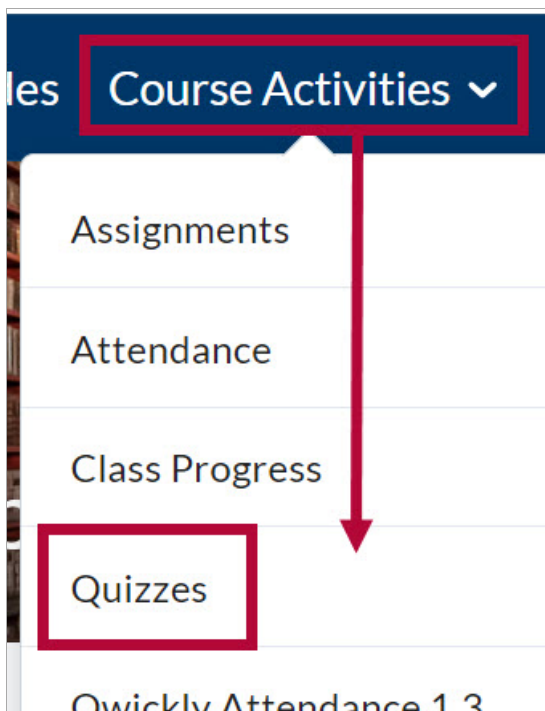

For instructions on attaching a rubric to a written response question, see Add and Edit Quiz Questions \(https://vtac.lonestar.edu/help/add-and-edit-quiz-questions\) .

You can now evaluate a student's response to a Written Response quiz question using a rubric. This will allow you to grade each student's response based on set criteria, and you can also provide additional feedback in the question Feedback field.

NOTE: Although you may add multiple rubrics to a written response question, only the first rubric is applied for grading.

To evaluate a written response question using an attached rubric, you must open your student's Quiz Attempt with the New Quiz Evaluation Experience for evaluation. Please refer to the Turn On New Quiz Evaluation Experience \(https://vtac.lonestar.edu/help/turn-on-new-quiz-evaluation-experience\) article for instructions on enabling the new quiz evaluation experience.

Question 3

How did the cultivation of coffee in the Americas contribute to the development of colonial economies and global trade networks in the 18th and 19th centuries?

The cultivation of coffee in the Americas significantly impacted global trade networks and colonial economies during the 18th and 19th centuries. As a valuable cash crop, coffee fueled the growth of plantation systems, often reliant on forced labor. The demand for coffee spurred increased shipping and maritime trade, leading to the development of new trade routes and port cities. The global market for coffee expanded, connecting producers in the Americas with consumers in Europe and beyond. This economic growth, however, was often accompanied by social and political consequences, such as increased inequality and tensions between colonizers and colonized populations.
